FUSIO

The concept of this series is like a deconstructivism of the cylindrical shape in an atmosphere of modernism. The very innovative designs are remarkably logic nevertheless. These vases function very well as stand alone objects, but are also perfectly proportioned to hold a bouquet of flowers. Add a sober touch of modern design to an interior.

LENOX

This series of vases and bowls breathe splendour and richness. Eventhough they have something of the classic greek pillars, they embody also modern luxury, soberly. Their verticality is balanced with a little bend, their robustness contrasts with the sharp edges.

DAVOS

DAVOS is the city where the rich and powerful gather yearly. DAVOS seemed the perfect name for this vase because of its elegance yet robustness, luxury aspect yet sober design. The dark blue color also fits this name, blue like the skies above the mountains in Switzerland, deep color tones like the sapphire stone.

Let's see if at the next World Economic Forum we can spot a DAVOS vase!

TYLER

This series has a lot of “retro” in it, referring to the style of the 1950’s. Think pastel colored interiors, American drive-in cinemas, etc.

Straight cylinders with well proportioned wider base.

The orange color gets darker in the curves, and that’s why we called it Amber, also a typical “retro” color.

It also comes in dark gray color, yet still has some warmth to it.
